FIRST AND FOREMOST

FIRST AND FOREMOST

Carver High School was born four years ago, and we are the first ones to participate in all four years of the CHS experience. The lessons we have learned and the good times we have had must never be forgotten; the goals of this yearbook is to preserve those occasions for the years to follow.

We have studied diligently in high school, knowledge that shall be invaluable in our adult lives. Our efforts in sports and extracurricular activities have laid a precedent for others to follow, just as we have expanded on those who came before us. We have learned to accomplish the best we can in anything we do, and that is the most important lesson of all. Everyone who has done the most they can to make our high school journey educational and exciting, has helped make the senior class of 1991-FIRST AND FOREMOST.

The real men and women of the sporting world, these are the stars of the '80s and the '90s: Oakland A's Mark McGwire and Jose Canseco who have been in four World Series in as many years, the incredible Bo Jackson, the scoring power of Michael Jordan or Joe Namath, and the frozen intensity of Cam Neely. Things change in sports — Mike Tyson lost his heavyweight crown but, on the other hand, the Red Sox lost their chance at a championship, yet again.

It happens every time: you come home after a long, hard day-plop down on the couch, grab some snacks, turn on the television and watch the world go by. Almost a national pastime, spending hours in front of the boob-tube. And 1990-91 saw innovative, and not so innovative, new programs capture a wide audience. The hilarious "In Living Color" or the "Simpsons", the daring "Young Guns", the clichéd "Fresh Prince of Belle Air", and the famously mysterious "Twin Peaks." Favorites like "The Wonder Years" and "China Beach" continue to be excellent as Arsenio Hall becomes even more popular. Television could be beginning a new era, where quality and popularity are now synonymous.

TRIUMPH . . . AND TRAGEDY

THE big news story that opened this century was the August 2 invasion of Iraq into their neighbor Kuwait. The aggression prompted retaliatory action from all over the globe with President Bush sending hundreds of thousands of American soldiers into the Middle East. Gas prices rose around 50 cents a gallon as the President quickly reneged on his promise of "no new taxes." Our planet's environment feated prominently in the media with everyone now aware of the need to recycle and conserve. Nelson Mandela was finally released from his unlawful imprisonment by the South African government, but the struggle against apartheid has not yet ended. Fond good-byes go out to Jim Henson, puppeteer; Lucille Ball, comedian; and Bevie Ray Vaughn, musician.

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1991, sought out an individual who embodied the spirit of our class, a person to whom we could dedicate our yearbook to. The man we chose is one whom we have come into contact with throughout the years; a man whose faith in us never wavered even when our confidence in ourselves dropped. A man who stands out in the minds of many Carver High students as the spirit of Carver High. The gentleman of whom we speak is of course, Mr. Gary Lincoln.

When thinking of Mr. Lincoln the word that comes to mind is dedication. He supported us in our endeavors when we seemed to lack the motivation to carry them through. When we began to conceive of who should receive this dedication, the vote was unanimous. We all know Mr. Lincoln and we will always have tremendous respect for him.

He does not so much teach as educate. His classes are a forum of rational thought and experience. Yet, it is not only in the teaching department that we realize Mr. Lincoln's dedication.

Blood Drive, Model United Nations, Fashion Show, Seniorfest: all of these activities would not have been possible without the vital assistance of Mr. Lincoln. Through the years we have consistently seen his presence at our events — providing inspiration when we seem to falter. He has let us know when he is disappointed and how we can proudly fulfill our potential. His invaluable leadership has made high school enjoyable and productive, all for which we owe him an enormous debt of gratitude. For all of his hard work that must not go unrecognized, this yearbook is dedicated to Mr. Lincoln FIRST AND FOREMOST.

EXTRA - CURRICULUM

For many students at Carver High, the best part of the school day begins after the final class bell has rung. There is an enormous amount of participation in these after-school activities as they offer the chance to take part where they are not graded and success is measured in how much fun every member has. Here's a chance to belong to a specific organization that meets your personal interests, where you can be yourself doing something you enjoy. The wide variety of activities available is a testament to our individuality. Clubs are what make high school even more exciting — above and beyond the classroom.

STUDENT ATHLETES DETEST DRUGS

DEDICATED TO SAVING LIVES

The chapter of SADD, Students Against Drunk Driving and Student Athletes Detest Drugs, at Carver High had yet another successful year of saving the lives of countless high school students. Built on the principles of abstinence and honesty in asking for help, SADD has continued its invaluable tradition of safe and sober students. Extremely active year round, SADD kept up the holiday ribbon campaign to remind everyone of those lost to drunk driving and the prevention of any further tragedy. When war broke out in the Persian Gulf, SADD began offering yellow ribbons to the population in return for a ten cent donation which went towards postage for American troops. A region-wide SADD rally was proudly conducted at Carver High with spokesmen and supporters arriving from across the South Shore. The Carver chapter of SADD also had the great honor of being selected as Massachusetts's representative to the national SADD conference held in Florida earlier this year. Spending a week learning more about saving the lives of high school students, advisor Mr. Kevin Farrell along with president Jeanine Look and vice-president Sharon Sullivan used the opportunity to expand the positive message of the SADD organization.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

A prestigious organization nation-wide, Carver High School is proud to sponsor a chapter of the National Honor Society. Nominated by their teachers, each student must maintain a B+ or higher academic rating to receive this highly respected recognition. As more students are inducted each year, the NHS is another continuing tradition of excellence at Carver High.

PEER LEADERS

The peer leaders are a group of individuals brought together to help their fellow students in whatever problems they might have. The leaders are trained in communication skills in order to better handle the task of helping students with their problems.

The peer leaders have instituted a peer tutor program in which students are tutored by the peer leaders, the program has served as a blessing for many students who need help academically but don't have the time for a full time tutor. The tutoring program will be a tradition for years to come.

The peer leaders have also made outstanding achievements in the combat of alcohol and drug abuse through their counseling sessions.

The peer leaders are but a symbol of the energetic idealism which is necessary in the days of high school.

Dwell within
Yet soft rays

Mind over Matter
I shielded myself
Yet fire and power
Passion burns still

Did I reject you in vain
When my heart cried out for you
With all the desire
How could I spurn you

With anger I see
And envy runs deep
All who walk beside you
I kill in my sleep

Hatred for the control
You retain in my life
I walk in silence
Knife thrown so deep

The colors so perfect
Can never remain pure
And so in my sorrow
I exist in black and white

A WEEKEND OF ENTANGLING ALLIANCES

Now in its third year of existence, the Carver High School Model United Nations delegation represented the nations of Indonesia and Tunisia at the annual conference conducted at Harvard University. For four days students learned first-hand the complicated process of trying to achieve peaceful compromise in the modern world of sovereign countries. It was diplomacy in action by Carver students as they tried to guarantee global peace and security for future generations. With faculty advisor Mr. Lincoln, another delegation will be attending the national conference held in New York City.

"TOO MUCH COUNTRY"

Traveling halfway across the world to take classes at Carver High, the three foreign exchange students have found American education to be a real adventure. Mayumi Nakawaka is from Saitama, Japan and Massachusetts is a very different environment from that island. "Too much nature," was one of her first observations. She hopes to remain in this country and attend college in California. Like any other teenager, she enjoys listening to rock and roll music and going out with her friends.

Eric Nazmeer and Olga Libovetzkay are both from the Soviet Union. As members of the junior class, they joined Carver High halfway through the year and are adjusting well to an enlightening American lifestyle. Like Mayumi, Eric and Olga are taking advanced courses and doing extremely well. As Carver High develops a more international perspective, the world becomes smaller and its people, closer together.

DRAMATIS PERSONAE

The Carver High School Drama Club opened its first theatrical season with a delightful rendition of Winnie the Pooh and The House at Pooh Corner. Featuring actors from every class at the school, from seventh graders to seniors, their Children's Theater production was greeted by youngsters from across the area as hilarious and much better than any cartoon. A feast for the senses and the sensibilities, Winnie the Pooh was a tremendous success with which to start the new year. The second production, with a smaller cast, has tackled the Shakespearean comedy: the Merry Wives of Windsor. Under the experienced directorship of Mrs. Mary MacNeil, the Drama Club has become a remarkable creative outlet for young actors at Carver High School.

WHIMM ZAM-BOOM!

The Camera Club at Carver High School is a result of the dedication of science teacher Mr. Stephen Davies. During their regular meetings, the club instructs any interested students in how to process and develop black and white film on their own and also the basics of camera technique and expertise. Members of the audio-visual club have taken pictures or videotaped special school events such as sports and class activities. Working with the yearbook and school newspaper on numerous occasions, the Camera Club has become an extremely capable visual recorder of Carver High's commitment to excellence.

CAMERA CLUB

JOURNALISM

Writing, printing, collating, and distributing; the fundamentals of journalism at Carver High. Every other week, members of the staff become one with their computers for a period a day to complete their articles on local, national, and worldly events.

The following week, the newspaper's advisor, Mary MacNeil and Editor-in-Chief, Jennifer Glinos, sit at their computer and organize a layout. Meanwhile, the staff mimeographs and staples the pages, makes sure the finished product gets to homeroom teachers, and eats doughnuts when all is done.

Recently, the course has expanded to include its first media production, "In Focus." Journalism II seniors, Mike Poirier, Josh Dand, Jason Cooke, Bob Marcolini, Mark Hannon, and Jen Saltalamacchia work in alternating groups to create a news video which combines personal interviews, sports footage, and music to provide a different perspective on everyday events. At present it's and experimental project that shows definite promise.

Seniors that were new to The Crusader staff this year included Robin Rocha, Stephanie Roman, Julie Sampson, Diana Seaver, and Matthew Sorg. All should be proud of the work they put into the newspaper and the praise they receive with every new issue.

THE ENVIRONMENT CARES

Mark Hannon

The environment cares what we — the people responsible for care and well being — do to it. Yes, it does have feelings as we could interpret them, we would hear it screaming for help. The people who reside within earth's natural boundaries must help bring the environment back to a state of living where communities are safe.

The recent oil spill in the Persian Gulf has sparked numerous uproars from many environmental groups. Greenpeace is having heart failure as the small crews mobilized by many countries to clean up the little that their equipment can handle.

There are thousands of birds, turtles, sea snakes, and shrimp (that other sea animals feed on) among the other sea and land animals that are suffering. They are coated with oil just waiting for their bodies to fail them and begin their road to death.

Imagine yourself with a full layer of clothes on rolling around in a vat of molasses. Then maybe you will realize what animals are going through rolling around, unable to swim, fly, or walk in the crude oil spillage.

The cleanup has been delayed due to the Mideast conflict. Obviously they cannot halt the war to focus more on the cleanup, but the cleanup should not be totally ignored. If it is, there will be even more irreversible damage done to the Gulf.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH: A RIGHT WE MUST PROTECT

Stephanie Roman

Freedom of speech is one of the greatest gifts that democracy can give us. For what can transcend the value of being able to express both our thoughts and beliefs verbally?

Although we sometimes take this freedom for granted, it is an essential part of our lives. Who can imagine the horror of living in a world of suppressed thought: the nightmarish quality of such a life offends us. It is important that we strive to protect this freedom; not only for ourselves, but for others.

Perhaps the most vital connection that must be made when thinking of freedom of speech is that right and wrong are insignificant. The only guidelines that exist are those set in the first amendment against libel, slander, etc.

EDITORIAL

The war in Iraq is a war in which there will be no winners. When the bombs have stopped flying and the rhetoric has ceased, both sides will be irrevocably harmed. The war will not come solely in the casualty department but also in the political and environmental departments.

Foreign relations between the United States and the Middle East will never be the same. While some countries such as Egypt and Saudi Arabia may come out of the conflict playing a bigger role in Middle Eastern politics, the Iraqis, Palestinians and Kuwaitis' roles will change probably for the worse.

I remember that the night when Iraq invaded Kuwait I thought nothing of the invasion. I figured it would be an interesting tidbit in the annals of history, but aside from that I figured it was up to those individual countries to decide their fates. A week later that President Bush deployed troops to Saudi Arabia, making US involvement in conflict a primary issue in Americans' lives.

The more news I watched, the more I tried to figure out why we were over there. I hadn't done anything before when other countries had invaded their neighbors, suddenly the US was abuzz with war chatter. It may be, as President Bush stated, mainly to show Saddam Hussein "the acquisition of territory by force is unacceptable," but if you read between the lines you have to wonder what the role of oil in US foreign relations and how to relate it to our decision to take military action in the Gulf.

Then, in November, President Bush boldly declared, "The fight isn't about oil. The fight is about naked aggression that will not stand." And yet if we listen to other politicians, such as Secretary of State James Baker, who stated, "We cannot permit a dictator such as this to sit astride the economic lifeline," they seem to be implying the notion that the US is involved in this conflict is not solely diplomatic, but also a symbol of the priority of oil.

Well! Of all the wars and conflicts the United States has ever been involved in, we have never before fought for something as banal as decayed dinosaur remains! War is disgusting at any level, but a war for material well-being is the worst kind of war that could ever be fought. The US has gone from battling the "evil forces of communism" to battling a minor-league dictator on an ego trip.

Is the US right to intervene in this matter? It's up to the individual to decide, yet to me, I believe we should have waited and tried to have found other reasonable solutions, not gone rushing in with a mouthful of rhetoric and a fistful of rifle. Personally, I see the war as wrong and I will not turn my conscience off in the face of it to support the country that I live in. I consider myself a world citizen and all I see is the carnage and dead bodies that a war produces.

I cannot help but offer my condolences to the soldiers over there. Many went into the reserves to get money for college and have now ended up fighting in a war for money. I support the soldiers but not the reason they are over there. Those are two completely different emotions which remain quite detached.

Overall, I just feel compassion for all involved. Compassion that it had to come to this. Compassion that more lives are being lost because of economic greed needs. Compassion, I think that's what it comes down to.

Josh Dand, Co-Editor

AN OLD ENEMY EXPLAINED

Robin Rocha

More than likely, by this time in the season you've probably had one. If you haven't you probably will. What are we talking about? The common cold.

It is the most widespread of all diseases. World Book Encyclopedia reports, "Colds cause about 100 million illnesses each year in Americans."

Colds are infections of the mucous membranes of the nose, throat, and sometimes of the air passages and lungs. When colds spread to the air passages and lungs, they may cause bronchitis or pneumonia. Colds can be dangerous because they make us susceptible to other infections.

Doctors can prescribe drugs to relieve the discomfort caused by cold symptoms. They can tell us to take aspirin or other pain relievers to lessen our aches and pains. They can also prescribe nasal sprays to shrink mucous membranes and help us to breathe easier. Vaporizers can also provide relief.

MODEL U.N. PARTICIPANTS SET FOR NEXT WEEK

on Cooke

On Thursday of next week, a handful of Over High School juniors and seniors will be headed for the Sheraton Hotel at the Prudential Center in Boston. The purpose of this four-day trip is to conduct organized sessions which resemble those of the worldwide peacekeeping organization known as the United Nations.

Model United Nations is the high school version of the universal UN. Each MUN conference is composed of a group of several high schools, both public and private, from all around the United States, and even foreign nations.

Each high school represents a country that is a member of the U.N. Each student (or delegate) represents his/her country in an appropriate committee and works towards passing a resolution (on conflicts such as: regional land disputes, nuclear disarmament, and the Gulf crisis — which is currently the biggest issue.)

CRUSADER STAFF

BY THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE!

The Student Council, under the new direction of Mr. Richard Wade, reached for a more organized and more effective tradition in student government. Each class, from seventh grade to the seniors, sent their class officers and a representative from each of their homerooms to serve on the Student Council. Last spring, the entire student body also elected the Council's executive board with president Josh Green, senior; vice-president Jeanine Look, senior; treasurer Tony Pina, junior; and secretary Lauren Smolinsky, also a junior. Any school-wide activity undertaken by students such as fund-raisers and community service must first be approved by the Student Council in formal session. While there were a handful of controversies involving certain student bodies going through the administration to overrule the Council, overall the Council as a whole is a potent and influential organization representing the best interests of every student.

THE LEADERS OF TOMORROW TODAY!

Being a member of student council has to be one of the most stressful, time-consuming, and rewarding positions a high school student can experience. Representing the ideas and concerns of your class as a whole gives the student council member a feeling of satisfaction. To see a fundraiser bring in $1000 or to organize such events as the Senior Fashion Show or the Senior Senior Show can only put a smile on the face of the people who put them together.

Seniors Gina Morrill, Jen Saltalamacchia, Julie Sampson, and Kim Nunes were leaders this year. They brought the class together through much speculation to make this, our senior year, worth every minute of work it was.

LEADERSHIP

SOUND IMPRESSIONS

A young and extremely talented group, the Carver High School Band has been an active part of the student community. With numerous fund-raisers and concerts as the result of pain-staking rehearsals, the commitment to excellence of the band has not gone unnoticed. Under the learned instruction of Director Mr. Gil Barakat the members of the band are:

Kim Arabie, *Kerri Asiaf, Casey Bates, Jeanne Boucher, *Liz Boucher, A. J. Costa, Laura Crowell, Chris Dannaby, Phil Dorfer, Stacy Dorfer, Melissa Eakins, Jill Emond, *Marc Emond, *Linda Fein, *JoJo Fennelon, *Meci Gomes, B. J. WAR!

No one thought it would happen in our lifetime. A crisis or two, sure, but not a WAR. However, a United Nations resolution to remove Iraq from Kuwait "by any means necessary" was enacted when peace talks failed and withdrawal seemed anything but inevitable. On January 16, a day after the resolution's deadline, the United States and its allies bombed the Iraqi capital of Baghdad.

Most people were shocked at how rapidly the war began. Feelings among Americans ranged then and now between supporting the government as well as its troops to supporting the troops, but not the war that got them there to, to simply being too torn to have an opinion. We seem to be facing the fact that war is in process and we're fairly helpless in the matter. All we can do is hope and pray that it ends quickly and that too many families don't answer knocks at their doors only to face a Casualty Information Officer with not-so-pleasant news.

DARY SCHOOL

SCHOOL STORE

The School Store. Yummy Mentos, tongue-tingling tic-tacs and sweatshirts that never sell! Usually one goes to the school store to avoid the responsibility of binary classes. Time seems to slip away as we talk to our friends in the environment of casual business. It's a fun place to just hang out if you're trying to avoid the didactic authority figures of Carver High.

SENIOR LOUNGE

Yeah, the Senior Lounge! What a great place. A tiny cubbyhole in the middle of the cafeteria where we can escape from all the pressures of the day and relax in the company of our friends and the soft trickle of music. Of course there are times when the figures of power in the school creep up on us and take away our privilege — our last bastion of freedom in Carver High.

COMPUTER LAB

The Computer Lab! A place of technological mayhem where computers overtake our common knowledge. This is one of the few places in the school where we can feel very stupid for almost no reason at all. We have all had to enter the room at one time or another during our stay here at Carver High and we have all had to compete against the monster that is technology. At least we get to experience the taste of battle here in the protected halls of Carver High instead of the real world where computers can suck your brains out through a straw.

OH, THE PLACES YOU'LL GO!!!

The Senior Citizen's Prom, which took place this year on Valentine's Day, utilized the seniors' dancing abilities along with the senior citizens' worldly knowledge of dancing and both sides came together in a wonderful display of dancing. Overall, the night was a success as both the seniors and the senior citizens had a wonderful night.

SENIOR CITIZENS PROM

BLOOD DRIVE

This year's Blood Drive proved even more successful than all the previous year's Blood Drives. Together the American Red Cross was able to collect excessive units of blood than needed. Hopefully, the future Blood Drives at Carver High will prove to be even more successful than this year's.

Do you have any advice for the future classes of Carver High? "Do your best and work hard to make all your dreams come true."

The background is a vibrant, abstract composition of geometric shapes. A large yellow circle with a teal center is in the upper right. A teal circle with a yellow center is in the lower left. Various rectangular and triangular shapes in shades of blue and pink are scattered throughout, creating a dynamic, layered effect. The word "Seniors" is written in a bold, black, cursive script across the center, overlapping the teal and yellow circles.

INTRODUCTION

SPORTS

REAL FOOTBALL IS PLAYED BY CARVER GIRLS SOCCER!

The young girls varsity soccer team, coached by Jim Tighe and assisted by Bob Noyes were recognized for their spirit, aggression, and determination while finishing the season with a 4-12-2 record. The record not only lends credibility to their improvement over previous years, but it also shows the team's capabilities for further outstanding performances on the field.

To exemplify such achievements, the girls played in a tournament and left with three wins and one tie under their belts, proving their potential as a tough and rugged competitor for years to come.

The team was led by senior co-captains Kristin Webster and Christine Fletcher who were chosen as South Shore League All-Stars, and Jen Saltalamachia, who went out early in the year with an injury. Other seniors who guided the team toward success were Lisa Cutter, Becky Lyons and Gina Morrill.

SOCCER SOCCER SOCCER SOC

HEADS UP!

The 1990 boys soccer team had a year of ups and downs, triumphs and disappointments. After a slow start, the offense came alive and the team finished the season with a respectable effort and great promise for the future. Seniors Joel Finks, Bob Marcolini, and Josh Greene completed their Varsity Soccer career. Each was a goal scorer and an inspiration to our young squad. Captain Joel Finks was an Eastern Massachusetts All-Star and South Shore League All-Star. Under the dedicated guidance of coach Jim O'Connors, the boys soccer team has their best years ahead of them.

FIELD HOCKEY

INTENSE DEFENSE

Head Coach

ANN MOTYKA

Defense was the name of the game for the Crusaders Field Hockey team as they proved themselves once again to be serious contenders in the South Shore League. Each game was fought with a tenacity and a spirit which caused many of the teams to re-evaluate their opinion of the clubbers. The stalwart defense showed itself to be overwhelming as most opponents of the Crusaders were not allowed to score more than a goal or two.

The team, led by captains Sue Hogan, Jeanine Look and Sandy Serino, started the year off by scrimmaging against former regional partners Plymouth. Carver was in control during the first half as Offensive player of the year Lauren Smolinski rocketed in two goals. In the second half Plymouth scored a goal, and eventually caught a second wind and went on to tie 3-3, but the game stands as a rather apt portrayal of the entire season for the team: fierce determination and an astounding sense of defense.

The highlight of the year was when junior Shannon Bell was named not only to the South Shore All-star team, but also was named to the Brockton Enterprise's all-scholastic team.

Great things are waiting for the Crusader team. The groundwork was laid first and foremost with the Class of 1991.

CRUSADERS CRUSH HULL!!

Thanksgiving Day, 1990. A morning that will live in history at Carver High. On this day the Crusaders played their first-ever Thanksgiving game against the Pirates from Hull. Led by the senior captains Mike Grimes, Alex Haigh and Dennis Fratus the Crusaders triumphed over their opponents, 26-8.

This one game embodied what the entire season had been centered around — a stingy defense and a quietly explosive offense. Under the coaching of Peter Murphy the team persevered and won several games — expanding on the record of all the previous Carver High teams.

With the spirit they show, the enthusiasm they exhibit during games and practices, the Carver High football teams showed why they are first and foremost.

GIVE ME A "C"

Once again the long hours of practice paid off as the spirited Carver High cheerleading squad took the Most Spirit Award at the annual regional cheerleading competition. Tri-captains Amy McPeck, Kelly Corthell and Lisa Carbone led their squad to another high-flying fall season. At football games they were a major factor in the success of the team — Their cheers gave the team the boost of support they needed to rip holes in opposing teams' defenses.

At the Fall Sports Banquet awards went to Naida Rosenburger for the Crusader Spirit Award, Senior Amy McPeck captured the Sportsmanship Award, and sophomore Nikki Monaghan received the Most Improved Award.

The future looks great with the amount of talent being trained and whipped into shape by Coach Judy Merritt and Assistant Coach Sue Smith. In years to come the Cheerleading squad of the Class of 1991 will be remembered as one of the first and foremost components of the spirit Carver High make-up.

X-COUNTRY

STAMINA

With seniors Brian Pina, Jay Dicarlo and Christine Jones setting the pace, the Crusader cross-country team put forth an excellent season. While setting new speed records for the school, Pina was also selected to be a South Shore League all-star. Coach Martha Ready has a strong cast of up and coming runners who will bring Carver over the horizon in the near future.

SLAMMA- JAMMA

Off to their best start in their three year existence, the boys basketball team of Carver High came into its own in the beginning of the 1991 season. Under the strict hand of coach Chuch Green, the Crusaders found themselves in second place of the South Shore League small schools division by early January. Lead by seniors Mike Janak, Mike Sinkey and Dennis Fratus, the team has been more than just competitive in each of their games — they have been determined! With such dominant intensity the basketball team can only continue to play their best and leave a lasting mark on the South Shore League.

SWISH

Head Coach
Martha Ready

The Carver High School's girl's basketball team in its third year proves to be a tough adversary in the South Shore League. Coached by Ms. Martha Ready and led by co-captains senior Kristin Webster and junior Wendy Duarte, and seniors Sue Hogan, Christine Jones and Gina Morrill the team exceeded all expectations for their performance on the court. Recognized for their determination, aggression and drive, the girls were noticed as a legitimate South Shore League challenge for this and upcoming seasons.

DETERMINATION, AGGRESSION

IT FEELS GOOD . . . YEAH!

With a record of 3-2 (as of 1/3/91), Carver gymnasts have distinguished themselves as the #2 team in the South Shore League. The Crusaders' spirit and determination has given them a competitive edge over their opponents. Their school record of 117.9 represents their high level of achievement.

Led by captains Kim Nunes and Megan Cooke, the Crusaders experienced a terrific season. High scorers for Carver included Leslie Whittaker, April Duncan, Megan Cooke, and Michelle Cooney.

ALL THE RIGHT MOVES

Intense — with determination and effort. Energetic — with the will and desire to defeat any challenge. Champions — all these qualities made up the Carver High School wrestling team. Finishing off only its third season in their league, the Carver team has become the power house of Division 2 wrestling. After a 17-1 regular season record (with only a narrow loss to Randolph), the wrestlers continued on to capture their goal of first place in the South Sectionals and build upon their second place finish of the previous year. They finished the year with a very strong showing at the State finals with eight members in competition. Under the experienced coaching of Mr. Kevin Farrell and David Vining, the team was led by tri-captains Mike Grimes at weight 160, Bob Marcolini at 125, and Alex Haigh at 140 who has lost only one match since the 10th grade. Because of their incredible effort and dedication, the wrestling team made a powerful impact that future teams shall only improve upon.

Sandi,
 Your smile has two big dimples,
 Your frown has nothing at all.
 If you keep your sense of humor,
 Life won't be half bad at all.

Love,
 Mom & Dad

Kurt:

It hasn't always been easy but we've made it through. We love you and are very proud of you. There have been many times during the years that you have been there for us.

Follow your dreams and know that you can be the best you want to be. Remember that we can't appreciate the highs in life unless we have experienced the lows.

Be happy. We love you this much and all around the world.

Mom, Beth and Karyn

Congratulations to my

YEARBOOK ISN'T A CLUB

Yearbook isn't a club — it's a cult. We stay up late at night and suffer nightmares about blurry pictures and numbered pages. We stay in school for hours after normal people have left and sit around yelling at each other and having late-night basketball tournaments with old men. We eat our young and regurgitate their bones in the dark of night. We are the yearbook staff!
